How long has this technology been around?

Light therapy has been used in Europe for over 30 years and has been the subject of over 2,500 scientific papers published worldwide. This technology was originally developed by NASA to improve wound healing and tissue growth in space. It assisted with tired and fatigued astronauts upon their return. The potential of this technology was uncovered and introduced into the medical field. There are no reported side effects to the treatments, which are painless, non-toxic and compliments many other treatments.

What will it do for me?

LED is currently used in the medical market to treat all skin types with a single device.

- Cellular rejuvenation, collagen production
- Muscle toning, anti-aging
- Anti-inflammatory, capillaries & rosacea
- Calming and soothing
- Reduces swelling, calms irritations

This 'State of the Art' concept in non-invasive cosmetic therapy lifts and tones the face and neck muscles and treats conditions such as: Fine lines, Enlarged pores, Acne, Dehydrated and Aged skin. This totally painless, non-invasive treatment will leave your skin looking radiant and firm after the first treatment.

How does it work?

Max 7 LED Phototherapy works by setting off a frenzy of cellular activity to produce softer, more youthful looking skin. When different elements are thrown out of balance through unhealthy living habits, ageing or outside forces, we often notice a dull complexion, blotchy tired skin, fine lines, wrinkles and photo ageing. All these are direct results of unbalanced cells. The Max 7 device uses the seven colours from the visible light spectrum to promote balance and healing.

How many treatments do I need?

For optimum results a course of 6-8 treatments are required to achieve maximal skin rejuvenation with 1-2 sessions per week. The results can be long lasting, especially if sun avoidance and topical antioxidant regimes are followed. However, we suggest a maintenance
